

Roll an Activity

Age: 1 year and up

What's needed

Small box
Paper
Crayons or markers
Tape or glue

What to do

1. Draw simple pictures of several types of physical activity, such as running, bending, crawling, etc., that can be taped or glued onto one side of a small box.
2. Instead of drawing pictures, you can cut pictures from magazines of people doing various physical activities. Take turns tossing the die (the box with the pictures on it) and all the children can do the activity that shows on the top of the box when it lands.
3. Small motor activities could be substituted to make the game interesting for older children.

What children will learn

Large motor skills, small motor skills
